TRAVELS ABROAD.

LETTER FROM GERMANY

Friend Emerson:

The things we are writing about in this and previous letters are expressions of our views as we see them, others may go over the same ground and see things in a different light, but we can't all be of the same opinion on all subjects.

We left Paris about 10 p. m., and as we were fortunate enough to have a whole compartment to ourselves, we were able to sleep most of the night with as much comfort as in a tourist sleeper. On reaching the German border the custom officers passed our baggage with a superficial examination, and after a stop at Strasburg with its famous Cathedral, we passed on to Carlsruhe, which is the residence of the Grand Duke of Baden. This is a very nice quiet city, differently laid out than any other we have been in. The Duke's palace is the center with a fine park in front and a forest at the back, streets radiate from the center and others cross these in a circular shape so you can easily get to the palace from almost any part of the city.

In Germany as in France soldiers are seen everywhere, with the result that not only the women and children, but also dogs and cows must work, and after a hard day's work the cows have to stand and be milked. Cows are used for drawing the plows and wagons, the women in most places can hold the plow and drive the wagons, and while they rest they are knitting stockings, even the little girls going along the street knit. Dogs help draw small carts, and they work too. We don't feel sorry for the dogs, but we do for the women and cows, and are thankful that our parents had grit enough to leave here and sense enough never to go back. As Carlsruhe has a fine polytechnic school, you can see quite a lot of Heidelberg students here with white, pink, pale blue and pale green caps their society colors, many of them have scars on their cheeks the result of sword duels, and seem to be as proud of them as a monkey with two tails. If they have scars on the head they wear the hair clipped close. Carlsruhe, like every city in Germany, has fine monuments of Emperor William 1st, Bismark and Gen. Moltke. There are also public markets where the woman do most of the selling and knit while waiting for customers. Fish are mostly sold alive, being kept so in tubs of running water, you pick out what you want they catch them and knock them on the head, scale them and clean them while you wait. While strolling around we saw them drilling recruits, they put them through a regular course of athletics exercises to make them agile. Here as in France and most cities in England, the train or street car system is good, you get a receipt for your fare and a seat as well, if there are no seats you can't get on, which rule necessitated us waiting for the next car several times. In hotels most of them charge so much for room and breakfast, and there are no double width beds, but two single beds which are always feather beds. The same custom is in use in Holland.

After a pleasant stay in Carlsruhe, we proceeded to Heidelberg, about 45 miles distant, and noted for its university and what is said to be the finest ruins of the old style of castles or Robbers' Roosts, for the Rhine country was at one time noted for its highway robbers. Of course that method is not now in vogue. If you want to know how they used to do read the "Cloister on the Hearth," now a days they don't kill the traveler to get his money, there are laws against it. Heidelberg is on the river Neckar, and lies on the hill side somewhat like Jackson would if spread out toward the Gate, only the Neckar is quite wide. The university buildings are very ordinary looking, but there is a very fine library here. The ruined tower or castle covers quite a bit of ground and takes about two hours to get over it. Here also is the famous Tun or cask, but not in use any more except for tourists. You can also get a good view of the valley from the castle tower, the day happened to be pretty clear when we went up; you go up a cog train about as high up as Mattley's hill.

From Heidelberg we took a side trip to Mannheim and Ludwigshafen on the Rhine, at which place are the Badischera Amlin and Soda Fabrik, the largest of its kind probably in the world, where they make all kinds of Amline dyes and artificial indigo. They have about 10,000 employees, among them about 200 analytical chemists. We happened there at noon and most of the employees come out for dinner, they walked six and eight abreast like soldiers marching, and it was about 15 minutes before they were all out, and we saw only those at one of two gates. No one not employed is allowed to visit the works, everything connected with the making of the dyes is kept secret. Any employee caught betraying is imprisoned after trial as long as three years. After visiting with some newly made acquaintances, who were hospitable to us, we returned the same day to Heidelberg.

We will now stop in our trip to tell you a few things we observed. Living expenses or food is much higher here than in England or France. Beef none less than 25 cents a pound, pork about the same, veal 28 cents, flour $4 per 100 pounds. In France you can get loaves of bread six feet long, here most of them are the size of goose eggs, and a good deal of rye bread is used, also sausages, probably because any kind of meat will work up that way. Wages are low, from 60 cents to $1.50 a day for mechanics. Railroad employes from 65 cts. to 85 cts. Women house servants work from 6 a. m. till 11:30 p. m. in hotels for $1.50 a week. Eggs, the best, 10 pfennigs each, to 8, 7 and 6 pfennigs for those not the best. You can imagine what the cheap ones are. The best or drinking eggs are dated with ink which will stand boiling water, those are the kind you get when you order boiled eggs, 100 pfennigs equal 1 mark or 24 cents. Halloween and all Saint days are observed by putting lighted lantern or flower wreaths on the graves of dead relatives. Many stores had both on sale while we were there. As the weather was getting quite wintry, being rainy, cold and foggy we took our departure for Cologne, where we spent two days seeing the sights, the principal one being the Cathedral with the tallest spires in the world, about 500 feet high. Inside the cathedral does not come up in architectural beauty to many of the English, but externally it is grand in its carvings, but the sparrows and pigeons nesting among the images of the kings and saints somewhat spoil their complexion. There are many manufacturers of eau de cologne each one claiming to make the only genuine, original article. Coming down the Rhine from Mayence, the fog lifted enough so we got a good view of the scenery along the river, which to our eyes was no better than you can get along the Mokelumne river. The scenery along the Rhine has been written and talked about for ages, while some or most of American scenery is unknown to most of the world.

Leaving Cologne we stopped to make some inquiries for friends at Crefeld without results, and passed on through the lower Rhine country to Rotterdam, passing the custom inspectors of Holland without bother. We noticed as we approached Holland, and also in Holland, women and cows were more respected. The cows were allowed to peacefully graze in the pasture, while the women only had to dig potatoes and turnips or rutabagoes, besides probably taking care of the children and doing the house work. We spent one day (Sunday) in Rotterdam walking along its famous quay or dock on the river Maas, also taking a train ride and seeing as much as possible in a day. There are numerous canals hereabouts and it is astonishing to see so many buildings out of plumb, some as much as two feet, and that sometimes in two directions. After supper we started for the "Hook of Holland," where we took the steamer and after a smooth passage across the channel, sleeping all the way we arrived at Harwich, England, just as the fog was going to make a landing impossible. As we had no whiskey or cigars and no more tobacco than the law allowed, the custom inspectors again passed us for the last time till we reached New York.

From Harwich we rode through fog to Liverpool where we arrived too late to get berths on the Lusitania, so have to wait for the "Caromia" which sails Nov. 9th, so we put in the time with side trips seeing sights

we missed on our arrival. This finishes our account of our trip, unless something unusual occurs on our homeward trip, so with best wishes to all from, Waltenspiel.

Hazy as to Legal Residence.

Hunting up Land Frauds.

Charging that Charles P. Vicini, district attorney of Amador county, had become mixed up as to the exact locality of his legal residence, the United States land office filed suit in the United States district court yesterday to vacate the patent obtained by him to 160 acres of land in El Dorado county, which, it is charged was gotten by fraud.

According to the papers in the case, Vicini swore that he and his family had been living on a grant of 160 acres of government land in El Dorado county in the summer of 1901 for 14 months.

At that time he had been three years in the office of district attorney and his legal residence was in Amador county.

In order to obtain a patent to the land, on which he had 14 months before located a homestead entry, Vicini is alleged to have sworn that he had lived there for the time required by law to complete title.

The suit filed yesterday is a proceeding in equity only, the criminal part of the action being barred by the statute of limitations.—S. F. Call, Nov. 17.

The people of this county were generally astonished upon reading the above item in substantially the same terms in all the San Francisco papers of Sunday last. It was the first information they had received on that score, and came as a surprise to all. The unaccountable part of the affair was that one holding the office of district attorney should attempt to file upon land in another county under the homestead laws of the United States. The locality of the 160 acres in question is not stated other than that it is timber land in El Dorado county. It is therefore no doubt far up in the mountains, some thirty miles away from the county seat of Amador. The laws concerning residence on homestead claims are very exacting. They demand residence in good faith; that is that the settler make the claim his home. It is not sufficient that he visit the land every once in a while. He must have his home thereon. Now the state law regarding the residence of the district attorney is equally stringent. That official is required to reside at the county seat of the county whose legal representative he is. The duties of his office will not permit his absence from the seat of government, and the law prohibits certain county officials among whom is the district attorney, from being absent for two months. Such absence would doubtless render the party liable to be ousted from office. The homestead, it appears from the above item, was what is known as a commuted entry; that is, the settler upon satisfactory proof of not less than 14 months' actual residence, is allowed to prove up and pay cash for the land at the rate of $1.25 per acre.

Under the present federal law, before a patent is issued on any entry, an agent of the United States is required to visit every tract applied for and proved up on, and make a report thereon.

A representative of the land department was in this and El Dorado county several months ago, and visited all the homestead and timber claims for which a patent was pending. He went up in the timber region around Ham's station.

One of the unaccountable features of this affair, which is being severely commented upon, is how it came to pass that such a glaring instance of violation of the homestead law should pass muster through the land department, and remain undetected, or at least unventilated, until the statutory time had elapsed which precluded reaching the offender by criminal proceedings. It is rumored that this phase of the matter will be searchingly investigated by the authorities, with a view of ascertaining who is responsible for the failure.

Prolific Yield of Potatoes.

We desire to acknowledge receipt of a sample lot of potatoes grown on the ranch of J. P. Harker, in Pioneer district, about twenty miles east of Jackson. We received eight potatoes, and the aggregate weight of the lot was 15 pounds, within a trifle of averaging two pounds each. The potatoes are of the finest kind. For domestic use they cannot be surpassed by any produced in the state, and there are few localities that can come anywhere within reach of them in all the essential qualities that go to make up a marketable article.

The astonishing part of the story remains to be told, showing what can be accomplished in this line with the exercise of a little care with soil of the eastern section. Mr Harker informs us that from a patch of land of one-eighth of an acre he gathered 80 sacks of these potatoes. The sacks averaged about 110 pounds each. He had no trouble in disposing of the entire product on the ranch, at two cents per pound. This would give a return of $176 from the patch. At the same rate one acre of ground would yield an income $1408. We very much doubt if such a record can be exceeded in the agricultural field anywhere. The cultivation of two acres of land would be ample to support a family in comfort, if not affluence, and from a single crop per year. All the potatoes that can be raised of that character will command a ready sale. If the local demand should be exceeded, the outside market is practically unlimited. In the cultivation of potatoes, irrigation is necessary. So that it is not every ranch where such results can be accomplished. But there is sufficient land suited to this vegetable, which, if devoted in this direction, would give a wonderful impetus to that region, and support a population many times larger than it has at present.

THE EXTRA SESSION.

Governor Gillett has yielded to the request of the financiers and called an extra session of the legislature, which convened in Sacramento last Tuesday. We believe the members of the legislature and the horde of attaches will do most of the rejoicing over this outcome. It will afford them another opportunity of drawing salaries, and that is the most important consideration with the average legislator and attache. The governor will unquestionably do his utmost to protect the interests of the state against disgraceful raids upon the treasury, which have come to be looked upon as an inevitable concomitant of the assembling of the lawmaking body. Whether he will be able to do so, however, remains to be seen. It is one thing to bring them together, it is another thing to keep them within reasonable, or get them to let go of their jobs at the proper time. Eight or ten days is given out as the probable length of the session. If they wind up their business in that time the people will be agreeably surprised.

The subjects specified in the official call are:

The postponement of the date of delinquency of taxes from the last Monday in November until probably some time in January or February.

To allow the courts to transact business during special holidays; ratifying the amendments to the charter of San Francisco which were adopted at the election recently held in that city; providing for the payment of members of the national guard for duty in the late disturbances in San Francisco; the removal of Andrew M. Wilson from the office of railroad commissioner for corruption in office, he being one of the confessed boodling supervisors of San Francisco prior to his election to his present position last fall; empowering the state to issue bonds for the improvement of the harbor of San Francisco; and lastly, to provide money for the contingent expenses of the governor's office.

The decision of president Roosevelt to omit from all coins hereafter minted the motto, "In God we trust," has raised a storm of discussion pro and con. The reason assigned for this innovation is that it tends to irreverent jesting. Religious bodies are generally averse to this obliteration of the acknowledgment of the Deity from the gold and silver coins, and a strong effort will doubtless be made before congress to have the inscription restored and made compulsory. As the law now stands it is discretionary with the administration to omit or retain the motto. With the exception of our present strenuous chief magistrate no president since the days of Grant and Lincoln has deliberately stricken the words from coins upon which they had previously been placed. Ten-dollar gold pieces are now in circulation minus the motto, and other coins are to follow, unless congress orders otherwise. Whether the motto is retained or discarded is perhaps immaterial. The question of the religious or irreligious character of the nation is not in the least involved. The president defends the omission of the words on the ground of religious veneration; the sectarian urges their retention on precisely the same ground. The strike-out business seems to partake more of the spectacular than anything else. It is something in the nature of a Roosevelt surprise.

Things grow apace in this country. Less than fifteen years ago the rural delivery system of the post office department required an appropriation of $10,000; now it takes over thirty million dollars to support that particular branch of the postal service.

W. J. Bryan seems to have the democratic nomination for president pretty well corralled. He says he will accept it, and that settles it. Roosevelt is credited with saying he will take the republican nomination if tendered unanimously or without opposition. It may be questioned whether he made any such statement. If he did it practically amounts to a reiteration of his determination not to be a candidate, because the conditions are very improbable. Bryan would be a third timer, and a no termier. With Roosevelt it would be a second timer for a third term.

In the state of New York the insane patients are in the proportion of one for every 300 of population. The greatest ratio is among the foreign element, which is in the proportion of fully 1 in 200. The insanity rate has been increasing at a rapid gait during the past ten years.

SECRET WRITING.

How Letters May Be Made Safe From Prying Eyes.

Even with the most unromantic of us occasions sometimes arise when we should like to make some memorandum or write some letter which cannot be read except by those we wish to do so. Here is a simple method:

Soak a sheet of note paper in cold water and lay it perfectly flat upon a pane of glass. Place above it another sheet, dry this time, and on the upper sheet write your message with a fairly hard pencil. You now destroy the dry paper and allow all the moisture to evaporate from the wet piece. Don't hold it to the fire, but let it dry naturally. If you then examine it closely you will see not the faintest trace of writing, but if you moisten the paper once more and hold it up to the light you can read quite plainly all you wrote. It will show up like the watermark on a postage stamp. This method, by the way, is sometimes adopted by convicts. They use their gruel cans instead of glass and a sharp piece of wood for a pencil.

Another way is less dirty and even more effective. Lay several sheets of paper on a flat surface and write upon the top one. Then remove the bottom sheet, on which no impression appears. If you hold this in the vapor of iodine, however, the writing will turn brown and be quite legible. The explanation is plain. The note paper contains starch, which on being pressed turns to hydramide, a substance which is acted on by iodine in the manner described.—Answers.

THE PURSER'S JOKE.

Why Religious Services Were Not Held on That Trip.

On most of the big ocean steamers a minister is usually found among the passengers, and invariably he is called upon on Sunday to conduct religious service in the main dining saloon. Occasionally the man of the cloth seeks the purser and asks if he may conduct a service on the Sabbath. A case of this sort happened recently on one of the Red D steamers on the run from New York to La Guayra. A young minister who three days before the steamer sailed had taken orders from a seminary, and a day later a wife asked the purser if he might conduct religious service on the following day, which was Sunday. The purser replied that the dining saloon was at his disposal and that the passengers would be informed. "At what hour shall the service begin?" asked the young minister. The purser rubbed his brow a moment and replied that he could begin at "nine bells." The minister and his bride appeared in the dining saloon at 9 o'clock in the morning and waited four hours for the congregation, which did not come. On the following day he listened again for "nine bells," but heard them not.—New York Tribune.

She Said the Wrong Thing.

"I shall never forget the breakfast I gave to a pretty girl when I first knew her," the short man began. "It would make your mouth water to hear what it was—grape fruit to begin with, the most delicate of breakfast food with cream, a choice broiled chicken—it was a late breakfast—the finest of fruit, coffee. I can't remember the things I ordered for her at that breakfast, and what do you think she said when she finished? She said: 'You needn't have gone to so much trouble. I don't care for anything but a couple of eggs for my breakfast and a piece of toast.'"

"It was the wrong thing to say, I will admit," sighed his wife. "I was that girl, and I have been living ever since on a couple of eggs for my breakfast and a piece of toast."—New York Press.

Fortunate.

"I thought," said the author as he took back the manuscript, "that the story would just about do for you." "Yes," rejoined the editor, "that's just about what it would do if we printed it, but fortunately I happened to read it myself, so I am returning it to you for fear of accidents. People are so careless."—Judy.

The operators at the copper mine in Alpine county of which former Sheriff George C. Graves has been superintendent and in which several San Andreas parties are interested have suspended work for the winter, owing to the financial stringency.—Prospect.

The "farmers' limited" ran over a cow just this side of Clarkson last Saturday and the carcass had to be chopped out from under the engine.—Echo.

We learn that all work has been suspended at the Napoleon copper mine near Milton and that the pumps have been taken out. This latter order came rather as a surprise to those interested as it was supposed that the suspension was only temporary, and that work would be resumed in the spring. It now looks as though the suspension would be for an indefinite time.—Prospect.

The latest reports from Sheep Ranch are much more encouraging than they have previously been. Quite a number of men are at work in and about the mine and apparently will be continued on the work. Parties are now at work on a contract to haul 100 cords of wood to the mine, which certainly is a pretty good indication that there is no present intention of closing the plant.—Prospect.

Chas. Leidmann a miner employed in the Sheep Ranch mine was the victim of a peculiar and serious accident the first of this week. He was getting ready to blast, and had prepared three capped fuses, which were placed in such a way that the heat from his candle exploded them. The fragments of the caps filled his face and penetrated one eye, the sight of which was destroyed. The man was at once taken to Stockton for treatment, and Thursday the injured eye was taken out by the surgeon there.—Prospect.

The Mt. Pleasant Mining Company have bonded to William C. Rose, of Goldfield the Mt. Pleasant mine, together with the mill and other machinery, wood and water rights. The reported consideration is $200,000, to be paid on or before March 31, 1910. The bond provides for the employment of not less than four underground miners and that ten per cent of the proceeds of ore extracted shall be applied on the purchase price.—Mt. Democrat.

Charles Gardella of this place is operating the old Packard mine near Whiskey Slide. Mr. Gardella has been in San Francisco during the week for the purpose of purchasing a pump and other necessary appliances to enable him to handle the flow of water in the mine. Good ore is being encountered and all indications point to a dividend paying proposition.—Chronicle.

Oscar Zwinge is wearing his eye in a sling for a few days as the result of fooling with a twenty-two. It seems that young Gil Zwinge had the rifle and had tried to insert a cartridge in the barrel but could not make it, but went off and left the gun with the shell sticking in the barrel. When Oscar came along he took the gun and carelessly pulled the trigger. The result was that the shell exploded filling his eye with powder. Though painful and a pretty close call, there will probably be no serious results.—Prospect.

Two of the huge tractors lately employed in hauling freight and ore from Copperopolis to the railroad at Milton, have been transferred to Valley Spring to be used in transporting the heavy machinery and materials for the large dredgers that will operate in the river near Jenny Lind.—Calaveras Chronicle.

On the 8th instant, John Scott Marchbanks, a man about 45 years of age, was found wandering about Salmon Falls in a demented condition, going on all-fours part of the time. His wife and two children were killed by the San Francisco earthquake and he was injured at the time.—Mt. Democrat.

Friday morning last Lawrence, the 6-year-old son of Dave Quirolo of this place, was run over by the Valley Spring stage. The little fellow was standing in front of the town hall and when Creighton Ham, the driver started down the street to make the turn the little fellow must have got frightened and started to cross the street, and when nearly across he started back again and was knocked down by the leaders and trampled upon and also run over by one of the wheels. At present writing the doctor is unable to tell just how bad the little fellow is injured.—Chronicle.

Ida White, who kept a house of ill fame in this place for some time, but who for the past three months has been located at Angels Camp, died in the County Hospital Monday last from acute alcoholism. Ida was arrested in Angels on the 14th of last month and was charged in the justice court of having relieved a gentleman friend of the sum of $140 in a Chinatown joint. Her preliminary examination has been postponed from time to time for various causes. Friday of last week she was charged with insanity and taken to the detention hospital at San Andreas, at which place she died last Monday. Miss White had been drinking very heavily since her arrest for larceny.—Calaveras Chronicle.

In the coyote hunt last Sunday but one coyote was killed by the dogs. The ground was so dry the dogs could not run by scent on the tracks of the coyotes.—Echo.

Marion Sibole accidentally cut a vein in his left forearm Wednesday and the wound bled profusely. The services of a physician were required to stop the bleeding.—Echo.

It is planned to have a big coyote hunt the day after Christmas. The Glide pack of hounds and Charley Swift's dogs will all be in the hunt. It is expected that many coyotes will be killed.—Echo.

The bank of J. Surface & Son is cashing all the checks drawn by its depositors, in cash, but is not cashing outside checks on banks which are not paying their differentials to this bank in cash. This speaks extremely well for the situation here. In fact, the local financial condition is in the best shape of any small community in the state. Ione is not dreading any hard times or money stringency.—Echo.

WHAT THEY SAY OF THE LEDGER.

The Amador Ledger, published in Jackson, one of our most esteemed exchanges, is now issued in quarto form. The size of its pages have been reduced, while the number has been increased from four to eight.—Magnet.

The Amador Ledger, one of the oldest newspapers in California, celebrated its 52nd birthday on the 1st inst. by an enlarged and improved form. Instead of a four-page paper it now has eight pages. The Ledger is one of our most valued exchanges and is a paper that labors faithfully and consistently for the best interests and advancement of Amador county, and in its enlarged form should be able to accomplish much more for its home county. We wish for it many more years of useful life, and the appreciation it so richly deserves.—Mariposa Gazette.

CHINESE FOOTBALL.

It Is More Like a Prolonged Riot Than a Pastime.

"The first game of football I witnessed upon my arrival in China," one of our consular representatives at home for a visit remarked recently, "I mistook for a very serious riot, and you wouldn't have blamed me either.

"In the first place, I was not aware that the Chinese had any such game, but later found that it is very popular in north China. It is not played as the American game, and instead of eleven players to the side there are fifty. These northern Chinese are almost giants, and every man on the team will be six feet or over in height and weigh on the average 200 pounds. There are no goals, side lines or halves. The game lasts until one side is the winner, and frequently this is not accomplished before two or three days.

"The idea of the game is to force a small wicker basket, which takes the place of our ball, into the territory of the other side—this territory being one-half of the town—and up and down the streets the fight rages. Each man is equipped with a whistle with which to summon assistance when too hard pressed.

"Stealth as well as main force may be used in getting the 'ball' into the enemy's country, and I know of one clever player who did so by passing over the roofs of the houses. As you may imagine, a hundred giants yelling and fighting in the streets create some excitement."—Harper's Weekly.

SOUL HOUSES.

One of the Queer Customs of the Ancient Egyptians.

Egyptian "soul" houses were curious edifices made probably between the tenth and twelfth dynasties—that is, about 3600 and 3300 B. C. The same principle that caused the warrior's steed to be slain on his grave seems to have actuated the early Egyptians when they built a house for the dead man's soul.

The beginning of the custom was that a mat was laid on the grave, with a pan of food upon it. Afterward this offering was carved in stone as a table of offerings to the soul. Then to the table was added a shelter copied from an Arab tent, and this gradually was elaborated. The shelter was placed on columns, a hut was put into this portico, chambers were copied, and finally appeared complete two story houses furnished with pottery models of couch, chair, stool, fireplace and the figure of a woman making bread.

The soul was conceived of as ascending from the grave through the ground and requiring shelter while feeding on its everlasting provision, and yet, though it ascended through the earth, it needed a staircase to go up to the upper floor, and the soul had a donkey, for which a manger was required.—Chicago News.

Ventilate Well.

An old writer says, "When men lived in houses of reed they had constitutions of oak; when they lived in houses of oak they had constitutions of reeds." This is a picturesque description of the injury which may come to us from fine houses too closely confined to keep out the fresh air and too heavily curtained, preventing the entrance of sunshine, which is almost if not quite as important as air. But it is not at all necessary to have our fine houses unhealthy, and it requires only intelligence and thoughtfulness to render a brick house as good a promoter of health as a cabin. Fresh air will come into well ventilated modern houses as well as through the open cracks of a house of reeds and sunlight through a window in a palace as well as a hovel.

The Discovery of Iron.

The stone age, bronze age and iron age so overlap one another it is impossible to say just when one begins or ends. Men began to use both bronze and iron long before stone had ceased to be used. In fact, America was in the stone age so late as its discovery by Columbus 400 years ago. It is safe to say that history proper and the iron age were born together anywhere from 8,000 to 10,000 years ago. It is more than likely that men gained their first information concerning the properties of iron through experiments with the pieces of it that had fallen from the sky in the shape of meteors.—New York American.

Energy.

Aubrey de Vere, an Irish poet and gentleman, mentions in his "Recollections" that when ten years old he had a tutor who constantly inculcated in him rectitude, purpose and energy.

The tutor's praise of energy was expressed by the saying:

"There are three letters of more value than all the rest in the alphabet—namely, N R G."

ANCIENT BOWS.

That of the Scythians Was In the Form of the Letter C.

While universally used by the ancients, the form of the bow varied with different nations. The Scythian bow was in the form of the letter C, and the bow of the Tartars, descendants of the Scythians, still keeps that shape.

The Greek bow was not more than three or four feet in length, but so stout and stiff that it required considerable strength and skill to use it. It is said that the first Greek bows were made from the horns of a species of goat, the bases being united by means of a metallic band. Afterward other material was used in their manufacture, but they still retained their original shape. These bows were too short to be of much use, and, comparatively speaking, but a small portion of the troops were armed with them.

The Romans carried the bow to Britain, where it at once obtained favor and during the middle ages was extensively used, forming an important element of the armies of that period.

The English archers were said to be the finest in the world, and their skill decided the battles of Crecy, Poitiers and Agincourt. The bows used were of two kinds—the long bow and the arbalest, or crossbow. The arbalest was made of steel or horn and was of such strength and stiffness that it was necessary to use some mechanical appliance to bend it and adjust the string. The arbalesters carried a quiver with fifty arrows and were placed in the van of the battle.

FELLOW SUFFERERS.

Each Had Throat Trouble Just Like the Other.

As the commuter who always boarded the train at Paradise Hills seated himself he was conscious that the young man next him looked at him with some curiosity as they exchanged good mornings. For the first few minutes neither one spoke; then the young man broke the ice. "You have a delicate throat, I see," he said commiseratingly. "I used to be bothered that way myself."

The commuter hesitated. There was something about his seat mate which invited confidence.

"Have you been married long?" he asked, with apparent irrelevance.

"Not so very," admitted the young man. "Why?"

The commuter cautiously loosened the bandage round his throat and, turning toward his companion, displayed an absurd looking, polka dotted tie. "We've been married less than a year," he muttered, "and she gave me six for my birthday."

The hand of his seat mate grasped his in a cordial, sympathetic grip.

"I thought so," he said. "It's only a year since I had my attack of throat trouble."—Youth's Companion.

Blowing the Nose.

Medical experts are calling the attention of the public to the importance of performing the nose blowing operation in a scientific and hygienic manner. First one nostril and then the other should be blown without undue violence. Doctors state that the two nasal passages should never be closed at the same time. If they are obstructed, as in the case of a cold, the back of the throat is filled with compressed air, and this, together with the discharge and the microbes which it contains, may be driven through the eustachian tube into the middle ear and lead to serious results. A great authority on the subject used to forbid his patients to blow their noses when suffering from a cold. The course is hardly one which will commend itself to those in the habit of catching colds. The best advice would seem to be that when it is necessary to blow the nose blowing should be done gently.—London Mail.

Wanted His Money's Worth.

"Have you any choice as to the wedding march?" asked the church organist.

"The wedding march?" echoed the father of the bride.

"Yes; the march that is played when the bridal procession moves down the aisle. Which one would you prefer—Mendelssohn's or the march from 'Lohengrin'?"

"Any difference in the expense?"

"Oh, no!"

"Then play the one that's the longest."

Silk Manufacture.

From all accounts silk manufacture originated in China. Chinese tradition has it that the Emperor Foh Li taught his people the art of cultivating the silkworm as early as 5000 B. C. Spain was the first European country to receive the silkworms, the Arab conquerors introducing them about the tenth century, probably from their home on the borders of Persia. The foundation of the silk industry in France dates from the year 1516, when Francis I. imported silk workers from Milan.

The Baby's Fault.

Nursemaid—I'm going to leave, mum. Mistress—Why, what's the matter? Don't you like the baby? Nursemaid—Yes'm, but he is that afraid of a policeman that I can't get near one.—London Tatler.

His Absentmindedness.

Professor (after dinner, looking at his empty plate in a rage)—There, we've had spinach and egg again! You know perfectly well, Amelia, that I can't eat it!—Flegende Blatter.

Sure Thing.

"Do you believe any of the plant or arboreal kingdom would stick to man if given the choice?"

"I think the dogwood."—Baltimore American.

LOCAL NEWS

M. L. Smith Notary Public and Stenographer, Court St., Jackson, Telephone Black 413.

Lawrence Sanguinetti, who went to Blair, Nev., some months ago, to work at a quartz mine in process of development in that camp, returned to Jackson early this week. He reports that others from this section who left for the promised El Dorado in Nevada, are on the point of returning.

Flora A. Morrill of Oakland, grand officer of the Degree of Honor lodge, visited the local organization last Monday evening. After the official proceedings the members partook of a banquet.

Elia E. Van Court of Los Angeles, president of the Rebekah assembly, paid the local lodge an official visit Tuesday evening. Three candidates were initiated, after which they retired to the banquet hall.

Mrs M. E. Clark, who lives on the Webb-Mason tract, fell off the porch of her residence last Monday, pitching forward on her face, a distance of several feet to the ground. She is between 70 and 80 years of age. She sustained a cut across the forehead and bruises about the shoulders, and was laid up for two or three days. She is able to be around again at this writing, and feels little effects of the mishap.

George H. Thomas was burning brush on his ranch, the old Clark place, south of town last Friday. The fire got started in the tall dry grass, and burned over a small area. It was also revived during the night and destroyed more of the dry feed. On the same day, the Cuneo ranch, in Middle fork district, was swept over by a grass fire, started in the same way by burning brush.

Mrs Dr. Roberts of Volcano went to Stockton Wednesday, where she will make her home in the future.

The Uniform Rank of K. of P. will go to Mokelumne Hill to-morrow night and put "Brookdale Farm" on the stage there. All the actors with the exception of Amiel Marcucci, who has a previous engagement in Lodi for that evening, will go and take part. Ross Moon will take Marcucci's part and be the villain of the plot. After the show they will give a dance as they did here, with the same music. They expect to raise their surplus of $208 quite a little.

Frank Valro's six year old son had his right collar bone broken Monday morning by running into a water pipe while coasting down a hill on a little wagon.

Peter Matteoda, who drives a team for the Standard Electric Co., had his leg broken Monday and Dr. Gall was called to attend to him. While trying to turn his team on the road this side of the plant the wagon struck a rut and threw him off his seat, the wheels passing over him and breaking both bones just above the ankle of his right leg.

Noble Grand Arch G. H. Bertram, accompanied by L. Baicalupi, a prominent Druid of Stockton, paid Jackson Lodge No. 114 of the Ancient Order of Druids an official visit last Sunday evening and witnessed the initiation of five candidates. We are keeping right up to date with our Peerless planisifter flour, getting a little better right along.

Horace Peek, a young brother of W. P. Peek, accompanied by his wife came over from Mokelumne Hill early this week to see relatives and friends. Their home is in South Dakota, and they are here only on a brief visit. They returned to Mokelumne Hill on Wednesday. The brothers had not met before for 52 years.

Tom Peek arrived from Oakland Wednesday evening, on account of the illness of his mother, Mrs W. P. Peek.

Mrs Z. T. Justus came up from Oakland Wednesday evening, called hither by the illness of her husband.

Tuesday while out hunting quail a miner from the Gwin mine had his hand so badly torn that a doctor had to be called to dress the wound. He was trying to put a shell into the gun, but it was a little too tight so the breach wouldn't close. He tried to force it and the shell went off when only partly closed. Quite a large piece of the brass lodged in his hand and caused him considerable pain.

Quail are getting very much more plentiful than they were during the first part of the season. A couple of our local sports have been able to secure the limit within the past two or three days, while not a few have come close to it.

Mrs Jesse Barnhart, who lives near Defender, was brought down to the county hospital on Monday and underwent an operation Tuesday. She is doing very nicely.

J. D. Palmer was taken down the first of the week with pleuro-pneumonia, but is reported as having passed the crisis and improving.

Tuesday evening Dr. C. W. Schact was put through the third degree of Masonry, after which a banquet was served.

J. S. Davis, the blacksmith of Amador City, met with an accident while at work in his shop about two weeks ago. A piece of steel flew from a chisel, and embedded itself in his left hand. It was not extracted until a week after, when he sought surgical advice and aid. He has been unable to work since; but the hand is rapidly improving, and he hopes to be able to resume his business in a few days.

Five or six inches of snow fell in the vicinity of Ham's station last Saturday night.

Contract is Let for Approaches.

George Hambric has been awarded the contract for constructing the approach to the bridge across the south fork of Jackson creek near the Zeila mine. He agreed to do the entire job for $1650 if there was no layer of two feet of gravel put on after the rest of the fill had been made, but no limit is set as to the time it will take him. The supervisors considered the matter thoroughly and decided that it would be too heavy an expense to put on the layer of gravel, making a difference of $1000 to the county.

The fill will measure thirty feet across the top, forty six on the bottom, nine feet high against the abutments, and running back 150 feet on one approach, with the same measurements on the other side but for a distance of 350 feet, making a total of 3166 yards to move. Mr Detert was approached and is determined to get back from the county the increase in his taxes on account of the raise in his assessment, and the difference between the county and city taxes, part of the mine being in the city and the rest outside. This increase amounts to about $435 and has to be paid by the one taking the contract. Hambric intends to use the dump, running the rock in cars to the fill. Some of the material for the chute will be on the ground by this time and work will be started immediately and he hopes to complete the job within forty or fifty days. There are a great many doubts expressed as to whether the bridge will fill the bill. If anything like the amount of water comes down in the future as last year the narrow space between the abutments will not permit the water to pass. It could have been lower and longer with no extra expense as the difference would be made up in the fill, which would not have to be so great in that case. Nor is there any provision made for the protection of the embankment where it touches the abutment. The wear at these points in time of flood is bound to be great and should be protected with rip-rapping for ten or twelve feet.

Something Doing at Electra

At last the Electra boys have secured a team and a real live one at that. "The Bunch" from up the river will cross bats with the Jackson's champions Sunday Nov., 24th, and expect to make "Sooky Arditto's" crew bite the bitter dust of defeat before the day is over.

Through the aid of Captain Santirfo and Manager Cummings, Electra has secured the service of some of the top notchers. The game promises to be a warm one and will be well worth seeing. Sammie Midget.

An Aged Lady Killed.

Tuesday afternoon as the train was pulling out of Galt, and just after it had turned from the main line onto the Amador branch, Mrs Cooper, an old lady about eighty years of age, residing in the first house beyond the forks of the track, was run down and died before they could get her to Galt to surgical attention. The fireman noticed her first, as she was about to cross the track some distance ahead, and motioned to the engineer to stop. He applied all the air and pulled the whistle, but the old lady was probably deaf, and since she had on a big sun bonnet she didn't see the train. The engine struck her on the shoulder and threw her some distance. She fell on her head, probably fracturing her skull. Other than a cut on the head there was no other bruise on her.

Married in San Francisco

Henry C. Garbarini went San Francisco a couple of weeks ago, and surprised everyone by returning last evening a married man. He met Miss Elvira Gardella who had gone down a few days previous, and the two were married at St. Mary's Cathedral on the fourteenth of the month in the presence of a few of her relatives and friends. They have rented a house on the Mason tract and will make their home here in the future.

Officers Elect.

The following officers were elected by Encino Circle No. 617 Women of Woodcraft to serve for the ensuing term:

Hattie Green More Favorable.

Wm. R. and John Thomas came up from Oakland Sunday to take charge of the Central Eureka again. They state that the prospects are good for making some kind of a deal with Mrs Hattie Green in regards to the old Eureka mine. The company communicated with her a short time ago stating that they were willing to go in on any kind of a proposition that could be arranged. As a result of this communication a meeting of the stockholders of the old company was called in San Francisco about two weeks ago, and a new board of directors elected. A resolution was passed that if the Central Eureka Company would elect a director on their board to represent Mrs Green, that some arrangements could probably be made to open up the old property. The Central Eureka expects to do this as soon as possible, and then the negotiations will open. This is the first time that the stockholders or directors of the old Eureka company have met for more than twenty years, and it is the first time that Hattie Green has given so much notice to any proposition that has come to her in regards to her holdings. If any arrangements can be made for operating the two properties from the Central about one thousand feet of virgin ground lying between the two shafts will be prospected. The North Eureka is one of the oldest mines in the county, finally passing into the hands of Hattie Green and others. They worked it for awhile but when it was burned out over thirty years ago they never rebuilt it. Numerous parties have tried from time to time to get possession of it, but she would never let go of it. According to tales told by old timers this is a very rich mine, and if worked by modern processes will certainly pay.

A Jackson Man in Colorado.

W. G. Anderson, who is well known hereabouts, and who is the principal owner of the New York mine and land adjacent thereto, some three miles south of here, went from here to Colorado last August. He is now in Smuggler, Colorado, occupying the position of foreman of the Iona mine. He writes to his friend Steve Angove, under date of October 28, in part as follows:

You wanted to know what sort of a place I would find myself in, and stated that I would be going until I reached the devil's own country. Well, one cannot call this the devil's country. From all accounts his country is warm. One can safely call this Lapland. It has snowed every few days since I have been here, and I came in August. For several hundred feet in our main tunnel the walls are incased with ice and icicles. We employ Swedes and Finns mostly. It is too cold for other nationalities. I can almost see you enjoying your beautiful sunshine, but you are doing it standing up, one of the deplorable features of your city since its incorporation. Where a city has a climate to be proud of people should not be housed up. In good old days of Evans and Askey, and other pioneers, your main street was thronged with good-natured men sitting in chairs. No woman was insulted by them, and your town was much more prosperous, and I assure you much more attractive. In Denver and El Paso there is to be found chairs on the sidewalks in front of the leading hotels. The sooner your city fathers get back to the old custom the better. You can find the people of Stockton occupying chairs on the main business streets.

In our last conversation, you were deploring your fate, saying what a grievous thing it was to be tied down. Why man, you are more fortunate than I. I will give you an illustration of hardship. A short time ago, I was on the summit of the Sierra Madre in old Mexico during a terrible thunder storm. I had an Indian guide, who was not well acquainted with the country. Our tent was pitched 100 miles from any place, but we managed to get out. During the Boxer war, one night about half past 10, I was stalled in a good sized town in northern Korea, with 26 bull carts loaded with dynamite, two natives to a cart. They did not want to go further that night. With the help of a good club and a revolver I managed to get to my destination at 1:30 the following morning.

We are up in the air here, at an altitude of 11,500 feet. We are driving a tunnel which when completed will be 6000 feet in length. We have a 30 stamp mill. This is a great mining country, big mines and mills all around us. Men are rather scarce. We pay from $3 to $5 per day for different grades of labor. I do not appreciate the climate and will head for Mexico again.

F. A. Voorhies Improving

Mrs Voorhies returned home Wednesday evening for a few days only to look after the affairs of the National hotel. She left Mr Voorhies in Sonora, the guest of Mr and Mrs J. H. Story. Mr and Mrs Voorhies have been in Berkeley for the past month, in the hope that the change of climate and scenery would return the latter's health, which has not been good for some time. He has in fact found the change of air and treatment very beneficial. Mr and Mrs Story went to Oakland to attend the funeral of Mr Story's tather, and on their return to Sonora they were accompanied by Mr and Mrs Voorhies on a short visit. Mrs Voorhies will return to Sonora in a few days, and from there both will return to Berkeley for an indefinite time, as the health improvement has been such as to induce them to remain for some time longer.

Rainfall.

Rain is much desired by agriculturists and stockmen. So far the season's rainfall has been very scanty. A slight sprinkling has been experienced two days of the past week, but not sufficient to do any good. The rainfall has been as follows:

November 16	0.04
Total for week	0.12
Previously reported	1.23
Total for season to date	1.35
Corresponding period last year	2.63

Machinery Missing.

H. F. Vogt, whose place is on the Mokelumne river, near the Standard Electric plant, has missed several pieces of machinery and instruments lately. Within the past fortnight he says one of his buildings has been entered and a steam gauge taken therefrom. Also a water gauge and accessories. He has likewise missed a magnifying glass and other property. The total value will amount to between $15 and $20. He is willing to give a reward of $10 for information that will lead to their recovery.

Pioneer flour is the best; have no other.

MINING NOTES.

Mr. Morphy did not arrive in Sutter Creek last week as expected, but he telegraphed Wm. J. McGee that he would be there this week. It is said that the total claims against the Wildman mines aggregate $7500, that of this sum only about $2500 can be enforced, the other claims having either expired by limitation or are not protected by lien or attachment. It is thought that if Mr Morphy will pay the secured claims of $2500 in money, the balance can be settled in stock, but the creditors are determined not to take stock for the whole debt.

The Central Eureka has been working a few men since most of them were laid off about three weeks ago, taking out a pillar of rock, which is in the rich streak that paid so well in years gone by, and is run through the mill at night.

All the mines around Amador City have been taking on men for the past month. The mines in this section are looking better.

South Eureka Makes Strike

While working on the 2500 foot level of the South Eureka mine, the men a few days ago uncovered a large body of good looking rock, but as yet the full extent of the find is not known. At present the company has forty odd men on the pay roll, and if the find proves as large as the indications they will put on more men immediately. During the past five or six weeks they have been running all the stamps during the day shift only.

The Lodi Excursion.

At first it was intended to have a special train leave Martells at seven o'clock next Thursday evening to take those down to Lodi who wished to attend the dance, and for it to return at two Friday morning. But so many have expressed the wish that the train wait for the dance to break up, that the L. & E. people have decided to have the train wait for the crowd. There will be no dance here Thursday evening so quite a crowd is expected to go down, some in the morning on the regular train so as to take in the foot ball game in the morning at Preston school between boys from there; and the two basket ball games in the afternoon, one between the girls of the high school and those from Lodi, and the other between the boys and a team from Berkeley high. The round trip fare will be just half the usual amount, while admission to the two games will only be thirty-five cents, and to the dance $1.50. The Lodi orchestra will give the music.

Taken With Fits

Z. T. Justus returned Saturday evening from a visit to his family in Oakland, and Sunday was taken with an epileptic fit. Dr. Endicott was called, and took him to the county hospital, but when morning came he was no better. The doctor telephoned for Mrs Justus to come up, which she did on Tuesday. He has improved considerably, and Wednesday was taken to the home of E. T. Heath, where he is now. Mrs Justus expects to take him to Oakland in a day or two if he keeps on improving.

Hunting License.

The following hunting licenses were issued by the county clerk during the past week: Arthur L. Palmer, Emanuel Garibaldi, Harry R. Lee, John McDermott, Eugene C. Feifer.

AUKUM.

Nov. 18.—Your correspondent, like a stray comet hunting through the aurora of misty sky, sauntered forth for a day or two and probably as aimlessly as the nomadic wanderers in their tramps in the immensity of space.

Around Grizzly Flat and vicinity there is a dearth of news save alone the shutting down of the Calder saw mill for the winter, and stopping the wheels of the locomotives on the narrow gauge railroad owned by the same company, until the burst of a summer sun starts them rotating on the track again.

Jim Blakely, who has run a stage from Placerville to Grizzly Flat for the past 30 years, broken down in vitality by his ceaseless toil through the scorching summer sun and piercing biting cold in winter, lies dangerously sick in Placerville, dying from an incurable disease. His friends now turn in sympathy and inquire of his daily condition. Even the ones that had enmity against him soften in demeanor, and with that human feeling that is certain to burst out over the helpless and dying, say sympathetically, "It is too bad, for old Jim was not a bad fellow." Such is human life, a man gets only credit for the good that is in him when he is dead. This is brought about by one single feature alone—the extinction of jealousy.

William Cole, who owns a mountain farm about three miles this side of Grizzly Flat, got $86 in gold coin for the fruit on six pear trees he has for this year. Joe Jukes, six miles this side of Grizzly Flat, got $36 from three trees he had this season. This ought to be a good advertisement for mountain farms situated all along the foot hills of California, where pure air, good water, plenty of wood, and as delightful a climate as one could wish, always dealing out spontaneously the health giving properties of life. Let the valleys look well to all their laurels, else the foothills will snatch their trophy from them before they know it.

At Placerville the financial question is the uppermost topic. It is not unlike any other city, but is simply in the maelstrom of financial fever with all of the rest. While standing talking to a landlord of one of its principal hotels, a man—whose contour of face, showed mixture of blood crossed by the Mexican, came up and asked the landlord to cash a check for him. "Can't do it," he answered. "Well," uttered the other, "It's a h—ll of a note; can't get this check cashed anywhere; I'll be d—d if I can eat it." The landlord with a sort of sardonic sympathetic smile passing like a ripple over his lips, said: "Stranger, you are no worse off than I am, I've got money in the bank and can't draw it." I afterwards saw the man with the check filling up with "boose;" suppose the saloonkeepers turned it into whiskey for him.

My esteemed friend, the editor of the El Dorado Republican, has an old poem in the last issue of his paper entitled "I want to be an angel." With all respect to the author of the poem, I must dissent from the truth of its assertion. In all my travels over the rugged hills of time, I never yet knew a man or woman so anxious to be an angel as not to get out of the way of a cocked six shooter, or try to outrun a cyclone into the nearest cellar, or send for a doctor when they were dangerously ill.

I suppose we missed the first and only chance in this community of having in our midst a real book author in the person of a woman, who had made temporary arrangements for board for a short time from the Dillons. She came as far as Plymouth and had all the romance of expectation quelled by the outlook of the country. If I were she, I would drift mentally into the jungles of African archaeology, and dig out the first fossil remains of those hideous ages to such effect and drastic vigor that would make the hair raise from the reader's head with startled wonderment at its perusal. I hope the lady in question will not take his as a feature of effrontery on my part toward her, but real romance is always confined to the "hidden hand," in the wierd dinginess of buried intricacies. Miss Margaret was daintily attired in a most becoming gown of light airy material, and looked a perfect picture of budding beauty. Games and dancing were indulged in until midnight, when a bountiful supper was served in the large dining room.

The guests who one and all joined in wishing Miss Margaret many happy returns were:

SUTTER CREEK.

Mrs Frank Risedorph and three children arrived from Oakland Monday evening, and joined her husband here, who has recently repurchased his old stand, the barber shop, and will reside here in the future. Her many friends welcome her return.

The dance given by the ladies of the Maccabees Friday evening, was a success both socially and financially. The Lodi orchestra was all that could be desired. The hall was crowded, supper good. Jackson was well represented, as also Amador and all went merry until 3 a. m.

Malcolm Calkins, a one time Sutter boy, attended the L. O. T. M. dance Friday night. His countenance beaming with smiles, quite happy in renewing old acquaintance.

Will Connors was one from Jackson to the dance Friday night, and for a time forgot that he was a handsome, dignified deputy sheriff, and was as lively and crickety as of old, midst his old associates.

Mrs Ella Van Court of Los Angeles, president of the Rebekah assembly I. O. O. F., paid an official visit to Excelsior Rebekah Lodge No. 63 Monday evening. The hall was beautifully decorated in the colors of the order for the occasion, the work was exemplified, the officers in the drill team commending much praise for the manner in which the work was done. The Misses L. Munger and Hazel Perkins were initiated into the order. An interesting program was rendered. Prof. Fred Ball of Plymouth lodge assisting with cornet solo, accompanied on the piano by Miss Adams of Lone. Miss Munger also sang a solo and there were other selections. Mrs Van Court, an efficient and humorous speaker, made an interesting address, after which Mrs Elizabeth Jones in behalf of Excelsior Lodge, in a few appropriate words presented Mrs Van Court with a souvenir spoon, after which came the banquet such as an epicure would desire, and it was a wee small hour when all adjourned.

Mr and Mrs Parsons of Jackson, attended the Rebekah meeting last Monday night.

Miss Emma Daugherty has retired from her position at the American Exchange hotel, and is at present the guest of Mrs H. Hayden.

George Chisholm was an outgoing passenger one morning this week, en route to San Francisco on business interests.

Jacob B. Klees, aged 62 years, suffering from cancer for about two years, died Saturday morning the 16th inst. at his home at Upper Rancheria. He was for many years a resident of Berkeley, coming to this county a little more than two years ago for the benefit of his health. J. Daneri had charge of the remains. The funeral took place Monday afternoon, the body being interred according to deceased's request, under a favorite oak tree in the home place. He leaves a wife and one son.

Wilson McVay, aged 63, for twelve years a resident of Volcano, died at the Sierra hospital Monday evening the 18 inst from abscess. His son E. E. McVay arrived here Tuesday evening from Oakland, the deceased's former home, his wife and son residing there. The remains were shipped by the local undertaker, J. Daneri, Wednesday morning to Oakland for interment.

Miss Belle Eddy has returned to her home, after an absence of several months in Petaluma. It is being whispered about that Miss Belle's visit to the parental home will not be for long, the chimes of wedding bells are in the air—but we'll tell you later.

Mrs Geo. Chisholm is on the sick list. Sutterite.

'BROOKDALE FARM.'

An Entertaining Drama Ably Presented by Jackson Amateurs.

Last Saturday evening the Uniform Rank of Knights of Pythias gave the drama entitled "Brookdale Farm" before a house that was completely packed. From every point of the affair was a success. The participants had studied and rehearsed their parts so much that not once did any of them lose their lines. The receipts from the reserved and general seats were $208, and from the dance after the show $100 while the expenses were $68. This surplus is to be used towards defraying the expense of the trip to Long Beach in May, where the Uniform Rank will gather and meet in competitive drills. They hope to go to Mokelumne Hill and produce the same show there, though it has not been definitely decided.

In the play S. F. Dal Porto took off Squire Brooks, an easy going country gentleman, the owner of a large ranch and a quarry, which his father had worked, but never found granite in. Dr. A. M. Gall, Roy Harte, the hero of the play, who was in love with Marion Brooks, and wished to marry her but was opposed by her mother, because his father had disgraced the name of Harte. Amiel Marcucci took the part of Gilbert Dawson, nephew of Mrs Brooks, whose marriage to Marion was favored by her, but opposed by Squire. He was the villain of the plot, trying to secure possession of the quarry through the ignorance of the Squire, but was thwarted by Roy Harte. In an altercation with the Squire, Gilbert stabbed him and killed him almost instantly. Circumstances directed suspicion toward Roy Harte, who fled the country to escape almost certain hanging. George Ross took off Dick Williams, or Lucky Dick, one time college chum of Gilbert, but now a tramp of the worst class. Dawson hired him to get Roy Harte's father into as much trouble as possible, but after Roy returned from the west and Gilbert had tried to kill him (Dick), he told everything and so landed Gilbert in jail and removed the only obstacle to Roy's marriage to Marion Brooks, which part was played by Miss Mayme Scapuzzi. Joe Phelps played the part of Samuel Hunter, the Sheriff; Miss Emma Boorman, Mrs Brooks; Miss Hazel Green, Nan Cummings, [a young girl under Mrs Brooks' wing, and of whom Ephraim Green thought so much and even asked Mrs Brooks sanction of the match, which she finally gave. Green was a farmer boy in the employ of Squire, though he was not nearly so green as his name or his looks. Dr. Endicott's take-off of this part could not have been better.

From Preston School.

Editor Ledger:

We are not advertising hilarious entertainment for holiday excursionists. The fact are as follows: The ambitious and successful union high school, patronized by the young men and women from Jackson and Sutter Creek, as well as from lone and the country round about, has for four years maintained the champion basketball teams of central California, one among the girls and the other among the boys. No city high school has yet beaten the brain and brawn of our country boys and girls. On Thanksgiving day the high school of booming Lodi and the would be capital city of Berkeley will play with our union high school, and the teachers and students invite the parents and friends from all over the county to be present at the game, cheer on our boys and girls, and give a sportsman's welcome to the visitors. As the game will be played in the afternoon the teachers request this state institution to suspend its rule that visitors shall not be permitted on a holiday, and allow citizens visiting lone to inspect our work in the forenoon. We gladly consent. Because many will visit us, and because our students will not be at work at their trades, but will be trying to enjoy a holiday of which it would be unkind to rob them by the interference of a swarm of visitors, the following order must be observed:

- 1—Visitors will be received only during the hour, 9:03-10:30, a. m.
- 2—Visitors will enter by the front drive, and pass at once to a view of the handsome administration building. They will then be invited to inspect the refrigerating plant, just completed, and the big assembly hall and gymnasium now under construction, every part of which, except the refrigerating machinery, has been manufactured and built by our own teachers and their students.
- 3—From the lawn in front of the administration building the visitors will have a view of the students at play on their grounds, and they will be entertained by music by the students and of twenty-six pieces.
- 4—Visitors will not be allowed outside the bounds indicated and at 10:30 or before, all are requested to withdraw.
- 5—Visitors will courteously observe the state law prohibiting the use of tobacco on the grounds, and prohibiting the giving of anything to our students, or leaving anything where the students may find it.

"My sister says you ain't got no idea of humor," said Robble.

"Indeed?" Mr. Geezeley returned. "When did she say that?"

Amador County Descriptive Article

Amador county comprises an area of 548 square miles. It lies on the western slope of Sierra Nevada mountains, and embraces within its territory all the diversity of valley, foothill, and high mountainous lands.

Climate.—The climate of the populous portions of the county is as genial and healthful as can be found anywhere in California. As climate is one of the most valuable assets of this favored state in attracting population, Amador stands second to no county in this regard. It should, and no doubt will in time, when its climatic advantages are more thoroughly understood and appreciated, become a health resort not only for those in less favored states, but for the residents of other parts of California. The temperature alone the central portion rarely falls below 30 degrees above zero in winter, and as rarely rises to 100 degrees in the summer. Snow seldom falls in the settled districts, and never remains on the ground for more than a few hours. Of course, in the high mountain regions of eastern Amador the snowfall is very heavy—which is characteristic of the entire Sierra Nevada range. The summer season is always accompanied with cool nights; permitting of sound, refreshing slumber. Fogs are rare, cyclones are unknown, thunderstorms are infrequent.

Gold Mining.—The county, although rich in other sources of wealth, comparatively untouched, is noted principally for her quartz mines. The deepest gold mines in America are located here. The Kennedy mine is now making gold in liberal quantities from quartz extracted from a depth of over 1000 feet below the surface, with every indication that the pay-off extends to much greater depth. Since the discovery of gold, the county has contributed fully $100,000,000 to the world's supply of the precious metal. The mines are still yielding at the rate of about two million dollars annually. Nearly all of this wealth is produced by eight or ten mines operating on what is called the "mother lode," stretching clear across the county in a north-easterly direction a distance of twenty miles. The mines aggregate between 100 and 500 stamps, and furnish employment for over 1000 miners. This industry is still in its infancy. The unexplored territory, even along the main gold belt, is far in excess of the ground that has actually been worked or prospected. The county offers today one of the most inviting fields to be found anywhere in the world for the investment of capital in the fascinating business of gold mining, not alone along the mother lode, but also in the almost untouched mineralized country of the east belt, some ten or twelve miles from the main lode.

Besides gold, we have copper, deposits of pottery, coal, marble, slate, limestone, granite, and soapstone or slate—all undeveloped.

Agricultural Capabilities.—The agricultural possibilities equal, if not exceed, the mineral riches. The valley lands will produce anything that can be grown in the most favored sections. In the foothill lands all kinds of deciduous fruits thrive; also all kinds of vegetables are raised where irrigation practicable along the numerous water courses. Further up in the mountains, at an altitude of 2000 to 2500 feet, the soil is admirably adapted for apples and potatoes. A ready market for any times the quantity now raised of these commodities can be found in the various mining towns.

Grape culture and winemaking are coming important industries, both grapes and wine commanding a better price than the product of the wheatland.

Land is cheap compared with other California lands. Improved farms may be secured for one-fourth the price current in some places. Unimproved lands can be had from $5 to $10 per acre. It does not require a fortune to buy a small ranch. There is room for large addition to our agricultural population. Vast tracts now devoted to cattle ranges might be made the homes of hundreds of prosperous farmers.

Amador has a population of less than 10,000. Three-fourths of this is concentrated in a strip of three miles above and below the mineral belt.

Jackson, the county seat, has about 100 inhabitants, and is an incorporated city of the sixth class. Other towns are Sutter Creek, Amador City, Dryden, Plymouth, Volcano, Pine Grove and Oleta. Ione City is the metropolis of the valley section, a thriving town of 1000 inhabitants.

The community is law-abiding. Educational facilities are excellent. A schoolhouse is within easy reach of nearly every family. There is one high school, located at Ione.

The assessment roll for 1907 is $5,000,000, and the tax rate for both state and county purposes $2 on the $100.

Southern Pacific has a branch running to Ione. From this Ione and Eastern railroad extends five miles further to the mining

GOT HIS SHIRTS.

Comical Frank a Princeton Student Played Upon a Tutor.

In "Princeton—Old and New," by James W. Alexander, is the following story:

"The mode of life was simpler in those days than now, but the same humor which still makes collegians so comic effervesced in the old days. When, for example, William Pennington, son of a former governor of New Jersey and himself afterward speaker of the national house of representatives, roomed next door to Senior Tutor Topping it was the custom for each man to hang on the outside knob of his door the bag containing his soiled clothes for the laundry.

"Pennington stuffed his own skirts one day in Tutor Topping's bag and waited for the day when the clean linen was returned and laid out on Topping's bed. Then, knowing that two of the younger tutors were in Topping's room, Pennington knocked at his door. On entering he put on an embarrassed air, as if hesitating to speak in the presence of the other tutors.

"Topping in a lofty way said: 'These gentlemen are my friends. I have no secrets from them. Say what you wish.' Pennington still hemmed and hawed, but, again urged to speak, blurted out: 'It is not my fault, Mr. Topping. I did not want to say anything about it now, but as you insist I must ask you to please return the skirts I lent you, as I am in need of them.'

"Topping's rage and horror at being thus addressed before the younger tutors, who looked up to him as a Magnus Apollo, may well be imagined. He began to upbraid Pennington, who interrupted him by saying: 'It's no use, Mr. Topping, trying to deny the fact. I see the shirts there on the bed with your own things.' The tutor stood agast, but Pennington stepped to the bed and picked out his own shirts, marked with his name."

ST. LOUIS' GOLD MINE.

Traces of the Metal Once Found Within the City Limits.

St. Louis has never been known as a gold mining center, but there was once a gold mine within the limits of the city, and, what is more, it yielded gold, which is more than a great many gold mines in the Rockies have done.

In the sixties of the last century there was a well dug on a hill just east of Carondelet park, and the well diggers, noticing some bright, sparkling yellow particles in the clay at the bottom, did a little washing on their own account and found several grains of gold in the pan. The news soon got abroad, and two ex-miners from the west who were living in the neighborhood quickly got the idea that there was money to be made in St. Louis gold mining, so they sank a shaft not far from the well, fully expecting rich returns from their work. They did actually find gold, but in quantities so small that they estimated a yield of about 15 cents per ton of clay, so they filled up the hole and gave up the undertaking in that place as a bad job.

But they had all the miner's enthusiasm, and the fact that they found gold at all merely stimulated their zeal to try in another place, so they went to the side of a hill where the Glaze creek had washed away the earth and made a clay precipice. They dug a hole there, where they also found traces of the precious metal, but in no greater quantities than before. Then they went up the creek about a quarter of a mile and sank another shaft, with no better result. They spent the whole spring and summer digging holes around in the neighborhood of the park, but the only benefit they realized from their work was the sobriquet "two lunatics," and people laughed at them so much that both left and went back west, where digging holes in the search for gold was taken more seriously than in St. Louis.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Theater Seats.

The seats were in the orchestra on the theater's left. "The left side of the house always sells out first," said the box office man. "Everybody seems to prefer it to the right. I don't know why. Boxes especially—we can sell two left to one right box every time. Nobody takes the right side for choice. And there is no reason for this. As much goes on in the right extremity of the stage as in the left—we proprietors always look after that—and you see just as much from the right as from the left side. Why, then, is the left side always at a premium?"—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Name Bismarck.

Few people know how Bismarck and his ancestors got their name. Bismarck is the name of one of those ancient castles a short distance from Stendal, on the road from Cologne to Berlin, in the center of the old marquisate of Brandenburg. The castle had this name because it defended the "marca," or the line where the river Biese formed a boundary in former times or mark of defense against intruders; hence the name of Bismarck.

When Greek Meets Greek.

"Gracious, my dear," said the first society belle, "I do hope you're not ill; you look so much older tonight."

"I'm quite well, thank you, dear," replied the other. "And you—how wonderfully improved you are! You look positively young!"—Philadelphia Press.

Facts are God's arguments. We should be careful never to misunderstand or pervert them.—Edwards.

Nothing is so new as what has long been forgotten.—German Proverb.

A FOOL QUESTION.

Asked in a Railway Station, it Won a Caustic Reply.

He stood at the ticket window slowly unrolling an old fashioned leather bag, while a dozen men stood behind him, driven to madness by the shouting of the gatemen calling their trains. After he got about a yard and a half of bag unrolled he suddenly stopped and said to the ticket clerk:

"Is that clock right?"

"No, sir."

"Tain't?" shouted the startled passenger, stooping down and making a sudden clutch at a lean and hungry carpetbag. "Tain't right? Well, what 'n the name o' common sense do ye have it stuck up there for, then?"

"To fool people," calmly replied the clerk. "That's what we're here for—to fool people and misdirect them."

"Great Scott!" said the passenger, hurriedly rolling up his bag. "I've missed my train. I'll report you, I will!"

"Won't do any good. It's the company's orders. They pay a man to go round every morning to mix and muddle up all the clocks, so that not one of them will be right and no two of them alike."

The passenger gasped twice or thrice, but could not say anything. The ticket clerk went on:

"It's the superintendent's idea. He is fond of fun, enjoys a joke, and it does him good to see a man jump about and hear him jaw when he buys a ticket and then finds his train has been gone two hours."

"Which way is this clock wrong?" the passenger asked in despairing accents—"fast or slow?"

"Don't know. That's part of the fun not to let anybody in the building know anything about the right time. All I know is that it's about ninety minutes wrong one way or the other."

With a hollow groan the passenger grabbed his bag and made a rush for the door, upsetting any man who got in his way. In about two minutes he came back, crestfallen and meek, and took his place at the end of the line. When once more he walked up to the window he said, as he named his station and bought his ticket like a sane man:

"What made you talk to me like you did?"

"What made you ask questions like a fool?"—San Francisco Chronicle.

PLEASANT JAILS.

The Way Prisoners in Montenegro Are Treated.

When I paid a visit to the Cetinje jail I found that all the prisoners were out for a walk. For two hours every morning and again for two hours in the afternoon they are allowed to wander about on the green before the prison. There is nothing, indeed, but their own sense of honor to prevent their going farther afield unless they be murderers, in which case they wear chains. The authorities provide them with housing, of course, and with clothes—not uniform—also with a fire at which to cook their food, and they give them fourpence a day each to buy it. The prisoners cater for themselves. Two of them go to the market every morning to buy provisions for the day. They are not required to work unless they choose, and they are classified not according to the seriousness of their offense, but according to their standard of life and general behavior. If a man of education and refinement is sent to prison, care is taken to lodge him, so far as possible, in a room where the other occupants belong to his own rank in life. I found on one bed a beautiful counterpane and a pillow covered with delicate embroidery. "Yes, poor fellow, that's his wife's handiwork," the governor of the jail remarked casually as we passed. In one prison life was made so easy and pleasant that on leaving it I ventured to remark that to be there was no punishment, it seemed to me.

"No punishment!" the official who was with me exclaimed in surprise. "But think of the disgrace of being here. Is not that in itself punishment enough?"

I had and still have doubts on the subject, for I had just seen a cheery old fellow who, although the time for which he was sentenced had expired, stoutly refused to quit the prison.—Edith Sellers in Fortnightly Review.

White Africans.

The Berbers, who, although African, are as white as Europeans, are the oldest white race on record, says an explorer. They are supposed to have come from the south of Europe in ancient days, the Dundee Advertiser says, and, although their language and customs are entirely different from ours and their religion Mohammedan, they are probably closely akin by descent. Blue eyes and fair hair are not at all uncommon among the Berbers, and many of them have rosy cheeks and features so like our own that were they dressed in British fashion they would easily pass as natives of the British isles.

Equality.

Uncle—Hello! Dot got a new doll? Little Miss Dot—Hush, uncle; don't speak too loud! She is not one of my own, but belonged to Millie Simpson, who was cruel to her and 'banded her, so I have 'dopted her, but I don't want her to know, because I mean to make no difference between her and my own tollies.—London Tit-Bits.

What It Was.

"These deceitful women are so ridiculous!" said Miss Passay. "As for me, I was never afraid to tell what my age was."

"No woman," replied Miss Wise, "ever minds telling what her age was."—London Answers.

Land and Mineral Decisions.

(Reported by Woodford D. Harlan, Land Attorney, Washington, D. C.)

Coal Lands.—Failure to make proof and payment within the statutory period does not forfeit the right of purchase in the absence of an adverse right.

Contest.—Dismissed on order of contestant's attorney without the authority or consent of the contestant should be reinstated.

Entry.—Failure to properly note an entry of record in the local office does not defeat the effect of an entry. Absence of record of an entry in the general land office will not defeat rights secured by the submission of proof and issuance of final receipt.

Final Proof.—Acts done on land prior to entry considered as indicative of good faith. Evidence as to acts performed after submission of final proof, may be considered only for the purpose of discovering the intention of claimant prior to that date. Absence from the land after submission of final proof does not necessarily indicate bad faith.

Homestead.—Ownership of more than 160 acres. The disqualification resulting from the ownership of other land is general, with no exception as to ownership of arid land, and operative without respect to the manner in which title to the land was obtained.

Mineral Land.—Lands chiefly valuable for their deposits of asphaltum are mineral lands. The character of land as a present fact is the question raised on issue joined as to its actual character.

Pictures of the Lungs in Action.—A Dethroned King of Medicines.—Novel Pulverization.—Nations Overthrown by Malaria—A Dark Nebula.—Dustless Road Crust.—Vanishing Metals—Ocean Waves from Air Pressure.

Living pictures have been utilized for various demonstrations in medicine, one investigator having made biograph illustrations of different gait, while another has recorded various complete details of surgical processes, and a third has reproduced the convulsions of epileptics. The latest feat is that of Dr. Kohler, of Wisbaden, who has shown in X-ray photographs the movements of both normal and diseased lungs. The pictures were obtained by prolonged exposure of twenty seconds, several X-ray impressions being combined, and about sixty pictures were taken for each respiration, each of 20 or 22 phases of inspiration and expiration being projected two or three times successively. Some details brought out have never before been observed.

Gold formerly held a leading place among medicines, but even the much-wanted chloride of gold cure for alcoholism seems to be now regarded as without therapeutic effect by most medical men. Dr. A. Maudet, however, records that salt of gold is still used in the regular practice of a few French physicians. Chronic rheumatism is treated by Prof. Grasset with chloride of gold and sodium, which in dilute solution is injected by Dr. Bue into tuberculous tumors; for epilepsy Prof. Lemoine gives bromide of gold, the remedy of Prof. Robin for cancer; and a hypodermic injection of chloride of gold solution is Dr. Calmette's cure for viper bite.

By a new French process, milk powder is produced by forcing the liquid under high pressure through a tube only 1-250 inch in diameter into a closed chamber heated to 167 degrees F. by a current of warm air. The milk expands to vapor, the air current carries off the water, and the solids fall in powder.

That malaria, as well as political causes, played an important part in the decadence of Greece and Rome is the view brought out in a new work by W. H. S. Jones, of Cambridge, Eng., and supported by Major Ross and Dr. G. G. Elliot. In the fourth century B. C. a great change in the morality and character of the Greeks was coincident with a change of the country from a healthy to a malarious one. Physical vigor and intellectual power were greatly diminished before 300 B. C., while discontent and complaint became general, and in seeking a cause it is found that malaria has produced marked degeneration of race in modern times. The effect in Rome was somewhat different, brutal bloodthirstiness being a characteristic instead of moroseness and mental apathy. The writings of Hippocrates give a clear account of disease among the Greeks, but evidence is lacking to show the influence of health upon the political condition of the Egyptians and other early races.

A "dead nebula" is one of the most singular of strange objects noted in the sky. It appears in a recent photograph by Prof. E. E. Barnard, and is a long, straggling mass in the constellation laurus, evidently hiding stars behind it. The numerous stars around it suggest that the few within its limits must be on this side of it. A small luminous portion, gradually fading out, is shown, but it appears that the nebula must be a large one, and that most of it is dead or non-luminous, being in some places darker than starless parts of the sky.

Apokonin, the dust-preventing compound described by Consul Norton at Chemnitz, and used to some extent on the macadamized streets of Leipzig, is a mixture of heavy residual oils from the distillation of coal-tar with high-boiling hydrocarbons. After heating in iron kettles, it is sprayed with a special sprinkler that forces the liquid into the dust under high pressure, and the result is a compact black coating over the roadway.

A redistribution of the chemical elements—especially of the metals—has been going on through the agency of man for some thousands of years, and H. M. Atkinson, a British chemist, points out that the total effect must be considerable. The gold and other metals concentrated in small spots near the surface of the older rocks are being rapidly mined and put to use, the fine particles from their wear being carried down streams and eventually diffused through the deposits at the mouths of the rivers.

Tin oxide, for example, is mined at a few places, spread out pretty uniformly over the earth, and in the refuse of towns the waste tin is oxidized, carried away by water, and on the sea-bottom the fine particles are so scattered as to be beyond future recovery by any process known. The effect may be modified to some extent by the concentration of metals in solution and other causes. As the common receptacle of all waste, the sea must be slowly changing its composition from industrial processes—notably from soluble chlorides and other factory waste and from the salts of potash and lime that are taken from mines and used on the soil by farmers.

"Marine seiches," or "vibrations of the sea," are pulsations usually having periods of fifteen to twenty minutes, though varying in different localities, and they occur on coasts in addition to the waves of short duration due to wind and those caused by the regular ebb and flow of the tide. They have brought out various theories. A recent study has been made by Prof. Giovanni Platania at Catania, Sicily, and he concludes that the principal cause is air waves or variations of atmospheric pressure.

Domestication of the elephant seems to be making good progress on the Congo. Of the twenty-five young elephants at Api, nineteen are kept at work eight months of the year, and turned out in the forest during the rainy season, but do not join the wild elephants. They return to work willingly.

DOCTORS MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or over-busy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, and the doctor, the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in the treatment of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down, debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nerve "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

The biological laboratory of the department of agriculture is preparing to hurl a bombshell into the American home. The long tail rat has to go because he is responsible for the spread of the bubonic plague and now the mark of condemnation is placed upon poor tabby. The biological scientists say that the cat is the greatest carrier of disease; that it is responsible for the spread of tuberculosis, scarlet fever, small pox and diphtheria, especially among children.

"I suffered habitually from constipation. Doan's Regulets relieved and strengthened the bowels, so that they have been regular ever since"—A. E. Davis, grocer, Sulphur Springs, Texas.

THE ANTI-TRUST LAW.

From reliable sources the information is given out that the national administration will recommend either the repeal of the present anti-trust law, and the passage of another bill shorn of the objectionable features of the Sherman law, or such radical amendments as will accomplish the same purpose. The Sherman anti-trust law was passed many years ago in the hope that it would tend to curb the monopolistic spirit manifested in the giant combinations of big corporations. It was really the embodiment of the hostile sentiment against corporate wealth and power. The measure is very sweeping in its provisions. It declares that every contract combination in the form of a trust or otherwise, or conspiracy in restraint of trade, is illegal; and every person who makes any such contract, or who enters into such combination or conspiracy, is guilty of misdemeanor and subject to both fine and imprisonment. Fancy a law of similar import passed by a state legislature, and applicable to contracts or combinations in restraint of trade within the state. Almost any business consolidation or combination, made from the most laudable motives of self-protection, would fall under the ban of proscription, according to the caprice of those charged with the enforcement of the law. Any attempt to enforce such a drastic measure would speedily result in a realization that the law itself was far more in the direction of restraint of trade than any of the evils it was designed to suppress.

The drastic character of the Sherman act was not brought out until the present administration set the judicial machinery in motion in an effort to enforce it. So long as it remained a dead letter upon the statute, the public was unconcerned about it. But under the interpretation given by the courts, more especially in its bearing upon the railroad corporations, the defects of the law have been brought into the limelight. The conviction grows that the application of this supposed remedy would be likely to bring about greater evils than those which it is designed to cure. It is probable, therefore, that material changes will be made, permitting the association of railroad and other corporations and the combination of their facilities, at the same time giving the interstate commerce commission such control as will eliminate the abuses which heretofore prevailed. To exercise a healthful control without the industrial and financial disturbances now prevalent in all sections, and which are conceded to be due in measure at least to the present law, is the primary object aimed at.

In the extra session California is going to have another taste of hasty legislation. Ill-digested laws have been the bane of every legislature, and this session has been called together to pass laws on the do-it-quick plan. One of the greatest evils that afflict us is that of constantly changing laws. Every member goes to the capitol with a hobby, and anxious to have the credit of writing some law into the statute books. Too often they are enacted on the you-vote-for-my-bill-and-I'll-vote-for-yours principle, rather than the real merits of the measures proposed. Hence a good deal of the work done at one session has to be undone at the next. With ample time given to the discussion of every bill introduced the evil would not be so pronounced. But under the present system this cannot be done within the limit of sixty days allowed for each regular session. Nor would any lengthening of the session be likely to afford relief. There is no limit to the number of bills that may be introduced, so an increase of time for the legislative period would simply mean a corresponding increase in the number of proposed changes, and the same unseemly haste in rushing them to final passage. The trouble has become such that even the cumbersome method of the referendum is being agitated as the remedy. This implies a lack of confidence in our system of representative government; that the people will not delegate to the legislature the absolute control of the lawmaking business; that they deem it expedient after protracted experience to reserve the right to say, after a measure has been duly passed by the lawmaking body, whether it shall become operative or not.

The parental love of Major Frank McLaughlin, of Santa Cruz, who before committing suicide, shot to death his only daughter, the sole relic of his family, because he could not endure the thought of leaving her in poverty to face the world alone, trips the understanding. He was bankrupt in purse and credit, and like many a better man sought refuge in death rather than face exposure and disgrace. But to make his own shortcomings the excuse for murdering his own accomplished and beautiful daughter, was an execrable act, one that can only be accounted for on the ground of insanity. The love that finds expression in the murder of one's offspring is rank cowardice.

California has, in round numbers, 6,000 persons confined in her public insane asylums. With a population of two millions, this gives one insane case for every 333 inhabitants—a ratio that is probably exceeded only by New York.

Board of Supervisors.

The board of supervisors met Tuesday morning in regular session with all members present.

The board opened the bids for the construction of the approaches to the new bridge across the south fork of Jackson creek near the Zeila mine.

Three bids had been filed with the county clerk. Henry D. Emerson put in a bid for $3750 according to the advertisement, which called for two feet of gravel ballast. John Ratto's bid was for $2700 for the same, or $1800 without the two feet of covering. George Hambrie put in a bid for $2650 or $1650 without the gravel coverings. Hambrie's bid for $1650 was accepted unanimously by the board.

Board adjourned until Monday Dec. 2.

KEEP YOUR BLOOD CLEAN

Needed a Cloudburst.
Staying at an inn in Scotland, a shooting party found their sport much interfered with by rain. Still, wet or fine, the old fashioned barometer that hung in the hall persistently pointed to "set fair." At length one of the party drew the landlord's attention to the glass, saying, "Don't you think, now, Dugald, there's something the matter with your glass?" "No, sir," replied Dugald, with dignity, "she's a gude glass and a powerful glass, but she's no' moved w' trifles."

Such is Fame.
A learned correspondent writes: "I was examining a witness, an elderly woman, the other day. On my inquiring her name she said it was Mrs. Bardell and that she came from Gravesend. I asked, 'Did you know Charles Dickens?' She replied, 'Do you mean the undertaker?' Such is fame."—London News.

An Unhappy Comparison.
A country minister had just received his first call to the charge of a small church, and his wife, of course, was highly excited—so much so that she was obliged to tell everybody of the good news.
One day she met a farmer's wife and began the conversation.
"Do you know, Mrs. Close," she said, "my husband has just secured the incumbency of a church, and I can't tell you how delighted I am. I—"
"Yes," replied the sympathetic old lady, "I quite understand your feelings. I felt just that way when our pig took the gold medal at the cattle show."—Pearson's Weekly.

Very Plain.
Two country women, mother and daughter, were at the circus for the first time. They were greatly taken with the menagerie. At last they came to the hippopotamus and stood for several minutes transfixed in silent wonder. Then the mother turned to her daughter and said slowly and solemnly: "My! Ain't—he—plain?"

An Advantage.
"Now," said Tommy's mother, "I hope you'll profit by that spanking and not be such a little savage hereafter." "Boohoo!" blubbered Tommy. "I wisht I wuz a little savage. Little savages' mamas don't wear slippers."—Exchange.

Practical.
"What," asked the dreamer, "would you do if you could be a king for a day?"
"Me?" answered the practical man. "I'd borrow enough money to live on for the rest of my life."—London Telegraph.

It's so much easier to congratulate a man on his success than it is to sympathize with him in his misfortune.—Chicago News.
